This notice is to inform you that the Court of King's Bench of New Brunswick has approved a Settlement reached in a class action lawsuit against the City of Saint John on behalf of survivors of sexual abuse committed by Kenneth Estabrooks.

Eligible class members can now make claims for compensation from the Settlement.

Who is eligible for compensation?

You may be eligible for compensation if you suffered harm from being sexually abused by Kenneth Estabrooks in the City of Saint John between January 1, 1953 and November 1, 1975, while he was employed as a police officer.

What is available under the Settlement?

There is a settlement fund of $16.5 million available to pay eligible class members as well as certain fees and expenses, including an honorarium for the representative plaintiff and Class Counsel's legal fees in the amounts to be approved by the Court.

Class members may be eligible for compensation from the Settlement if they submit a Claim before April 13, 2027. Claims may also be brought on behalf of class members who passed away on or after May 16, 2024.

The Court has appointed a third-party, called the Administrator (KPMG), that will decide all Claims according to a Claims Process set out in the Settlement.

The amount of money paid for each approved Claim will depend on the nature of the harm each class member suffered, and the number of Claims that are approved.
